I am a general and psychiatric trained nurse with thirty two years experience. I have worked in the primary and secondary health care sectors and have developed skills and expertise in both management and clinical practice. Prior to coming to New Zealand, I worked work as an Autonomous Nurse Practitioner in Primary Care in the United Kingdom where I was able to utilise my advanced skills.

I registered as a Nurse Practitioner in New Zealand in 2012. My work as a Nurse Practitioner allows me to truly care for the presenting individual in a holistic manner.

Being able to assess, diagnose, treat and discharge or refer patients with mental health and physical/social issues and making that a seamless system of care and a more positive experience for the patient is the best experience for me as a nurse.
